The Hult Prize is going on 10 years now, and there was never a better time to join this movement than today. I love this program, and I love the solutions it generates every year. Since it began, the Hult Prize has had participants from more than 1,500 universities and 121 countries, and in this year alone there were 200,000 students working in teams to come up with projects that make a difference; that’s a pretty impressive record. This is the world’s largest student movement for impact.

I love the Hult Prize because it deals with what I think is the most important, and generally overlooked, question that we have to face in our complicated interdependent worlds, where so many good things and so many troubling things are happening at once - which is ‘how’. Anybody can talk about problems, and Governments, Foundations, and wealthy people can give money towards them – but people still have to figure out HOW to turn their good intentions into positive changes that move other peoples’ lives and empower them. That’s what the Hult Prize student teams seek to achieve every year and I’m grateful to all those who have, and will, participate.

The 2019 Hult Prize Challenge is asking participants to focus on job creation, to counter the unbelievably high unemployment rates in so many countries around the world. Some of the poorest places on Earth have a disparity that is breathtaking. It is really important to let people out of poverty, and poverty is more bearable if at least you think you can work your way out of it. The worse thing that can happen to anybody is to have to get up every morning and start the day believing that everyone of your tomorrows will be just like yesterday.

Dear Students

“...the worse thing that can happen to anybody is to get up every day and start the day believing that every one of your tomorrows will be just like yesterday.”

I therefore believe that this challenge, to develop an idea that provides meaningful work for 10,000 young people within the next decade, is particularly important in the current global environment. It’s also important because for the first time, the Hult Prize Foundation is asking the broader community of those who support it, including people who have participated before, to join in and compound the impact by collectively creating work for a million young people around the world on every continent over the next decade - it is a worthy challenge.

Wishing you all great success,

William J. Clinton,
42nd President of the United Stated of America and Founding Chairman, Clinton Foundation
Dear Attendees

On behalf of all of us here at the Hult Prize Foundation, congratulations! Making it this far is a BIG deal and an accomplishment that will last a lifetime. However, please remember, that your work is just getting started. Every year hundreds of thousands of young people from colleges and universities around the world come together around the Hult Prize to think big, be bold and work towards solving some of humanity’s biggest challenges. We join hands in the hope of creating a better world for all, through the sharing of new ideas and the inspiration, community and connections that come with it.

We have spent a decade inspiring and leading young people to think differently about how business can transform lives and be used as a force for good. Our global programs are each designed to change the trajectory of students at their most critical inflection points, converting ordinary degree seekers into game-changing impact entrepreneurs.

Since being founded, the Hult Prize movement has mobilized over one million students to re-think our future, and empowered them to be the change they want to see in the world. We are humbled that our flagship challenge has grown to become a benchmark program for social entrepreneurship and that our learning initiatives continue to breed disruptive innovation on nearly 2,000 college and university campuses across 100 plus countries.

This year is a special year for us here at the Hult Prize, and for me personally, as we celebrate a decade of impact and our 10 Year Anniversary. If I have learned anything over my tenure it is truly that, “anything is possible” IF you believe that struggling together is better than prospering alone. For us, by us.

Remember to have fun, be bold and always be kind. If you get a chance, please take some time to thank our community judges, mentors, experts, advisors, university officials, your parents and everyone else who has given their time to nurture and support a generation of young people that are poised to lead a generation to change the world.

Thank you for joining us.

Ahmad Ashkar,
Founder and CEO | Hult Prize Foundation

Traveling to Regional City & Transportation

There are many ways to travel within Boston, but the simplest way to get to the airport is either by taxi or the subway.

The greater Boston area is accessible via the subway system, known as the “T”. Logan Airport is located on both the Silver Line and the Blue Line of the T. It costs USD $2.50 per trip. Please visit www.mbta.com and click on “Rider Tools”, then “Trip Planner” to help plan your journey to and around the city.

A ride from the airport into the city can take anywhere from 10 to 30 minutes depending on traffic. Fares range from USD $10-$40, plus a 15-20% tip. Please note that not all cabs accept credit cards.

Be sure to check with the driver if you need to use a credit card.

Uber, Lyft
Both Uber and Lyft work in Boston and will offer a discount on most journey’s in comparison to Taxis. Be sure to download and register before arriving to Boston and check with your mobile operator if you will have data available at an affordable rate if you plan to use these services.

The first U.S. subway was built here: Boston built America’s first subway, the Tremont Street Subway, back in 1897.

Boston is home to the first college in North America. Harvard was founded in 1636.

About 250,000, or one third of the citizens of Boston, Massachusetts are college students, leaving 600,000 “regular” citizens.

Quincy, MA is home to the first Dunkin Donuts, located on Hancock Street.

The Boston University Bridge on Commonwealth Avenue is one of the only places in the world where a boat can sail under a train going under a car that is driving under a plane.

Fenway Park opened in 1912 and is the oldest original Major League Baseball stadium still in use.

2019 Regional Summits
Hult Prize On Campus Program gives you an opportunity to host a local Hult Prize event in your university, allowing the winning team to bypass the traditional application process and fast track their idea through one of 25+ regional final rounds. The program allows more students to compete around the world, leading to more ideas and ultimately more start-ups, each poised for radical impact.
Winning teams from each of our 25+ Regional summit finals from across the world, are having the chance to join the Hult Prize Accelerator Program at the Hult Castle, in the U.K. A global ecosystem of business leaders, mentors, investors, and corporate partners help forge a path for our students to become entrepreneurs and support their development for life. Our network opens doors to capital, mentorship, marketing, business development, customer acquisition, and talent recruitment.

“The winning team in each Regional Summit will spend 8 weeks in the Castle, accelerating their startup.”
Each year, the Hult Prize team issues a big bold challenge aligned with a large market opportunity inspiring students from over 120 countries to solve its greatest problem. 100,000 begin the journey, the top 50 get incubated in our castle in the U.K. and the top 6 teams pitch for USD$1 Million in startup funding at the United Nations Headquarters in New York.
